

Abstract of the Disclosure

A fluid separation conduit cartridge comprising a fluid separation conduit is disclosed. In certain embodiments the fluid separation conduit is potted to provide operation at increased pressures. In other embodiments, the fluid separation conduit cartridge has one or more memory
5 units. The memory units are operative to store data such as, for example, cartridge usage and test results.